DEDICATION

To The Late Augustine J. Belmonte

What is a hero? Many people have mixed emotions concerning a hero's actions and the type of deeds that he performs.

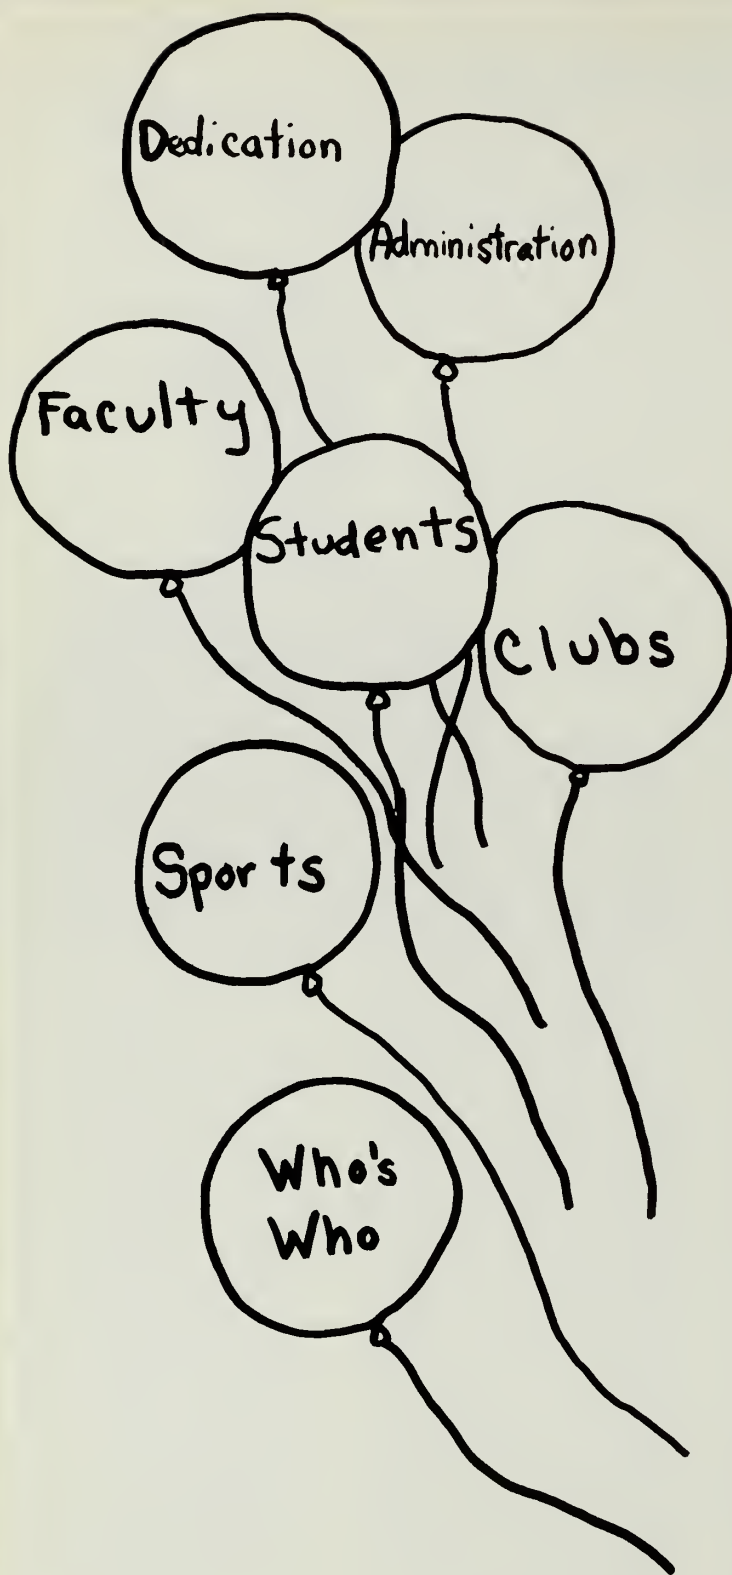

There have been war heroes, and leaders of our country who have been heroes. But there is one man who is a hero of our town and he has won a place in every person's heart. The name of this man is Augustine Belmonte.

Everyone knew him as "Gus." He was the type of man who was a hero even before he died for his town. Gus was constantly helping the young people of our town. He attended dances, organized baseball games, and he was a good listener. Gus was always there when he was needed. Not every man becomes this type of hero.

One night, while he was performing his usual duty in helping to protect his fellow citizens, Gus risked his life and was killed. The spirit of this fine man will always be our companion and his kind deeds will guide our memory of him. In a way, Gus was not only a hero of our town, but of our country as well. He won the respect and admiration of the young people . . . the generation gap never existed for him.

As someone has said, "Courage is a quiet quality." Augustine J. Belmonte certainly had courage; the quiet kind, the kind that makes men, the kind that makes heroes. It is for this quality that we will remember him.
